
Forum Rules

Posted by admin - 2008/07/10 16:18

The U4eco forums are designed to be a open place for discussion on topics about the environment and the surrounding issues. The forums are meant to be fun, simple and safe to use for all ages and we ask for all forum members to help us with this. The forums are run and moderated by a team of volunteers and is a collective task by all users to ensure forum rules are followed.

Forum Rules

- * Our forums are for discussion and debate, we do not accept rudeness, insults, personal attacks or purposely inflammatory posts.
- * The use of names in posts should only be used when quoting or in response to questions.
- * Spam, outside links or advertising will not be tolerated and will result in a instant warning. Ony outside links to webpages that are to aid in discussion are allowed.
- * We do not allow posts that are sexual or violent in nature.
- * We do not allow posts that contain foul language.
- * Only one posting account is allowed per user.
- * No names should be linked to address or contact details unless you are the said person.
- * Any posts made by users will be the responsibilty of that user.

All our forum rules are designed to ensure safe posting and safe use for all users. We reserve the right to modify or delete posts without warning. We also reserve the right to ban users from posting on the forums if rules are broken. The use of the forums to our users is a not a right and is a privilege only. Any posts made by users on U4eco are not the views or thoughts of U4eco or East Devon Online.

Any complaints or suggestions should be directed via email to forum@u4eco.com.

Thank you in advance.

=====